The agenda is divided into three major sections: economic reform, social reform, and political reform. Each section outlines a set of specific policy proposals that are designed to address the challenges facing the United States in the 21st century.

Economic Reform

The New Conservative Reform Agenda recognizes the importance of a strong and vibrant economy to the well-being of the American people. The agenda calls for a number of policies aimed at promoting economic growth, creating jobs, and reducing the federal deficit.

- Tax cuts: The agenda proposes significant tax cuts for businesses and individuals, arguing that lower taxes will stimulate economic growth and create jobs.
- Regulatory reform: The agenda calls for the reduction of burdensome regulations that stifle economic activity and job creation.
- Free trade: The agenda supports free trade as a way to promote economic growth and create jobs.
- Balanced budget: The agenda calls for the federal government to balance its budget by reducing spending and raising revenue.

Social Reform

The New Conservative Reform Agenda also addresses a number of social issues, including education, healthcare, and family policy. The agenda seeks to promote traditional values and strengthen the family unit.

- School choice: The agenda supports school choice as a way to improve the quality of education and provide parents with more options.
- Parental rights: The agenda emphasizes the importance of parental rights and seeks to give parents more control over their children's education.

- Healthcare reform: The agenda supports market-based healthcare reforms that would give individuals more choice and control over their healthcare.
- Family policy: The agenda seeks to strengthen the family unit by promoting marriage and family formation.

Political Reform

The New Conservative Reform Agenda also includes a number of proposals for political reform, including campaign finance reform, election reform, and limits on government power.

- Campaign finance reform: The agenda supports campaign finance reform to reduce the influence of money in politics.
- Election reform: The agenda calls for election reforms to ensure the integrity of the electoral process.
- Limits on government power: The agenda seeks to limit the power of the federal government and promote states' rights.

The New Conservative Reform Agenda is a comprehensive and ambitious blueprint for the future of American conservatism. The agenda articulates a clear set of principles and policy proposals that are designed to address the challenges facing the United States in the 21st century. By promoting economic growth, social cohesion, and political accountability, the agenda seeks to build a more prosperous, secure, and self-reliant America.
